

Ethan Beckcom is a Sr. Risk Advisor for Corporate Risk Services, a World Insurance Company. Mr. Beckcom provides enterprise risk management consulting and analysis to various industry clients, as well as comprehensive commercial insurance brokerage services.

Previously, Mr. Beckcom served as the Executive Director for Institutional Policy, Risk Management and Compliance (PRC) at the NorthWest Arkansas Community College (NWACC), Mr. Beckcom was responsible for divisional administration of 35+ staff while developing the Office of Institutional PRC from launch to enterprise oversight. During this time, the office received the Leadership Excellence Award for nationally recognized leadership/organizational development program from LEAD. In addition, Mr. Beckcom was as a course developer for the Institute for Corporate Safety (ICPS), conducting research, developing, and delivering emergency/disaster management and business continuity training for The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) throughout the nation.

Previously, Mr. Beckcom served as the Deputy Manager with the Benton County Department of Emergency Management and Homeland Security in Benton County, Arkansas. He assisted in the coordination of several hundred emergency responders, was involved in over a dozen state and federal disasters, and managed a multi-million-dollar homeland security grants program.

Mr. Beckcom started his career at Cura Emergency Services in Dallas, Texas as an incident manager. Over the years he has been tasked with various appointments within the higher education and emergency management communities, including the Arkansas Community Colleges' Leadership program, COO for the Arkansas Business Operations Center, Emergency manager for the Brazos River Authority, National President for the International Association of Emergency Managers (IAEM), and the Benton County Local Emergency Planning Committee (LEPC) Chair. He also served on the Disaster Roundtable of the National Academy of Science and served as an Adjunct Instructor for the Northwest Arkansas Community College.

Mr. Beckcom holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Emergency Administration and Management from Arkansas Tech University, as well as numerous professional certifications in risk and emergency management, including the Emergency Management Institute, Professional Continuity Planner (PCP).